Company Description:

The Soundbeam Project Ltd has for nearly 20 years developed and supplied cutting edge technology to schools, educational and therapy centres throughout the world. With around 40 agents / distributors located in over 30 countries, 'Soundbeam' has become widely established as the must have technology for facilitating musical composition / performance and creative expression for those considered to have Special Educational Needs. The key to the success of Soundbeam technology is in the versatility of the (multiple) ultrasonic sensor system and the ability to use it alongside existing musical instruments, synthesisers and computer software to enable even the most profoundly physically disabled or learning impaired individuals to become expressive and communicative using music, sound, image and film.
