

Employers worldwide are seeking increasingly higher levels of skills from their employees and want educational establishments to place greater emphasis on transferable skills. This workshop will provide an overview of the vocational opportunities and flexible learning routes available to students aged 14 to 19 in England to help them make the best of their talents.